5 steps to de-clutter your wardrobe

These next steps will help you achieve this

1. Empty your wardrobe
2. Create 4 piles
3. Organise
4. Colour co-ordinate
5. Take a trip to your local Charity shop

1) Give yourself at least two hours to complete the task. Start by completely emptying your wardrobe. You may as well give it a dust and a spruce up now you have the chance and hang a few scented wardrobe fresheners.

- 2) Your 4 Piles will consist of:
- Items you wear
  - Items you do not wear
  - Items you do not wear but have value (sentimental or financial)
  - Items you're not sure about

- 3) Re-stock your wardrobe
- The items you do not wear but have sentimental value enclose in a storage bag/case and store away.
  - The items of value, think about selling on an on-line selling site or take to a second-hand designer clothes shop (you may get more for your money here)
  - For items you are not sure about, be realistic if you have not worn that item in the last 6months (seasonal & black-tie clothing aside), you're not likely to wear it in the future, so pop it in the bag for the charity shop.
  - Re-stock your wardrobe with the items you wear in item order i.e. tops, jeans, suits, dresses, skirts, shorts etc. Put the items you wear most to the front and centre.

4) Group colours together within your item sections i.e. white tops, jeans, dark suits, black tops,

5) Stretch your legs
Take a walk to your local charity shop and donate the clothes you do not wear to a worthy cause
